- MAGHOLD a high-quality, large-scale magnetic media manufacturer
- MAGHOLD moves to their new address in Rancho Cucamonga
- MAGHOLD increases its ability and capacity to offer more inventory

Rancho Cucamonga, CA –

Anaheim-based magnetic media manufacturer MAGHOLD LLC recently relocated its headquarters to its new location at Rancho Cucamonga. The new premises include 2 large warehouse spaces to almost triple their previous location. This will also streamline their shipping and receiving operations to handle a large volume of magnetic products.

"We have moved into our new three times larger location", says Gary Foster the global sales director of MAGHOLD. He further states, "A lot more space means a lot more business".

The fact is that Rancho Cucamonga is a central location for MAGHOLD customers. This move will prove to be a catalyst in the rapid growth of the company. Now the company has great potential to offer more inventory, new products, and services to its current and new clients.

Maghold is a leading manufacturer and supplier of magnetic products. Their Southern California warehouse established now established in Rancho Cucamonga will allow maximizing product distribution by maintaining a reliable supply of magnetic products, and ensuring that all product deliveries are processed quickly and on time.

###

MAGHOLD offer a wide selection of magnetic media substrates that are made of eco-friendly recyclable materials, which meet EN71, RoHS and ASTM requirements. Their dedicated product development team enables them to offer stronger & wider magnet media with the highest quality.
